INUIT HERITAGE TRUST

Archaeologist

The Archaeologist is responsible for designing and delivering archaeology outreach and education programming across Nunavut, support Nunavut communities, government and non-government organizations in their needs for archaeological expertise, work with the archaeology collection of Nunavut, support the IHT in its efforts to further decolonize archaeology in Nunavut.

The position requires preferably a Ph.D in Archaeology, with work experience in Inuit Nunangat. The incumbent is expected to have strong interpersonal and logistical management skills, preferably experience working with elders, youths and young adults as well as budgeting and administration skills.

A high degree of cross-cultural sensitivity is essential for the position.

Willingness to travel to remote communities and to potentially conduct, organize or participate in archaeological field work in remote field camps is essential.

The position requires familiarity with the NLCA and archaeological resources of Nunavut as it pertains to the Trust’s activities.

The Archaeologist will be self-motivated, able to work independently with limited supervision with a strong interest in educational outreach, Inuit culture and arctic archaeology.

Fluency in Inuktitut will be an asset.

Inuit Heritage Trust offers a competitive salary and benefits package including housing and northern allowance, group medical and dental insurance, vacation travel assistance, and a pension plan.

The benefits package also provides support for life-long professional development.

The position is located in Iqaluit. Relocation assistance is available.

Closing date for receipt of applications is Friday, April 02, 2021.

If you like to obtain a detailed job description and if you like to apply with your resume and cover letter please contact:

Torsten Diesel
Director of Projects
Inuit Heritage Trust
P.O.Box 2080, Iqaluit, X0A0H0
Tel: 867-979-0731, Fax: 867-979-6700
Email: tdiesel@ihti.ca

The Inuit Heritage Trust Incorporated is committed to employment of the Nunavut Land Claims Beneficiaries.